

Giraffes can't dance by Giles Andrae and Guy Parker-Rees is a story about a very special animal with very special talents! We meet lots of different animals in the story that you might recognise.

But we want you to think of a new animal! It is your turn to design an animal with extra special talents! You can use body parts from animals you know or make up your own. You might want to use wings from an eagle, legs from a horse and a head of a rabbit to make a jumping, flying, running 'Horglit'!

Make up an exciting name for your new animal too!

Challenge– label each body part and say what it is good for.

E.g a sharp beak for pecking fruit.

We have included some animal parts that could give you some ideas or you could use to cut out and stick together! If you have them, you can use split pins so that the animal has moving parts, or you can just draw/cut and stick them together. Just have fun with extraordinary animals!
