

Time to practise the punctuation you should be using...

Can you remember what they are?

Have a go at punctuating these sentences and paragraphs accurately.

1) last week, I went to the seaside for the day

2) do you like having to be away from school

---

3) what a beautiful, sunny day

Now have a go at this paragraph, please write the corrected version on the lines.

when I'm sleeping I dream what it would be like being on holiday with my family I would love to be playing in the pool and sunbathing at mealtimes it would be delightful to eat a delicious meal with ice cream to follow. what a great time we would all have. what are you dreaming about at the moment

Challenge!

If you spot a fronted adverbial, underline it. Is it accurately punctuated?

Remember, fronted adverbials are phrases or words at the start of a sentence which are used to describe the action that follows, eg when, where or how.
